Nicene Creed

We believe in one God, the Father, the Almighty, maker of heaven and earth, of all that is seen and unseen.

We believe in one Lord, Jesus Christ, the only Son of God, eternally begotten of the Father, God from God, Light from Light, true God of true God, begotten, not made, one in Being with the Father. Through Him all things were made. For us men and for our salvation, He came down from heaven. By the power of the Holy Spirit, He was born of the Virgin Mary and became man.

For our sake He was crucified under Pontius Pilate, He suffered, died, and was buried. On the third day He rose again in fulfillment of the Scriptures. He ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father. He will come again in glory to judge the living and the dead, and His kingdom will have no end.

We believe in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the giver of life, who proceeds from the Father and the Son. With the Father and Son, He is worshiped and glorified. He has spoken through the prophets.

We believe in one holy catholic and apostolic Church. We acknowledge one baptism for the forgiveness of sins. We look for the resurrection of the dead and the life of the world to come. Amen.

Treasures From Our Tradition:

Labor Day originated in 1882 in NYC under the aegis of the Knights of Labor, becoming a legal holiday in 1894. Observing it this week gives us a good opportunity to reflect on the Catholic Church’s social teaching for the last century or so. On May 15, 1891 Pope Leo XIII issued the encyclical Rerum Novarum on the condition of working classes and labor, initiating a century in which Catholic teaching became more involved with the social issues of the day.

It is the Catholic Church that championed such notions as a fair day’s pay for a fair day’s work, and continues to uphold the dignity of the human person against attacks from governments and corporations. Take some time this Labor Day to familiarize yourself with some aspect of the Church’s social teachings.
